

News

Local news

- Santa Rosa
- Pensacola Beach
- Local Columnists
- State News
- Environment
- Education
- Hurricane
- Crime
- Military

National news

- Opinion
- Money
- Sports
- Obituaries
- For the record
- Entertainment
- Neighbors
- Forums
- Photos
- Life
- Travel

Story Search

Story search

Archive search

Sponsored by:
 Sacred Heart Health System

Specials

- Coupons
- Business
- Directories
- Outdoor Showcase
- Newcomer's Guide

News Partners

- Business Journal
- Gosport
- The Pelican
- FindaHome
- Family on the Coast

Giveaways

- Enter here to win!
- Toys R Us
- Portofino Med Spa
- Ice Pilots
- Nutcracker

THIS WEEK'S TOP STORIES:

- ▶ Baby panda to go on view at Washington's National Zoo
- ▶ A trip to anywhere: Frequent fliers seek elite status

Published - December, 3, 2005

2nd war death hits area
Washington grad killed by roadside bomb in Iraq

Kristen Rasmussen
@PensacolaNewsJournal.com

The war in Iraq on Thursday claimed its second local casualty in less than two months, when a 27-year-old Pensacola native was killed by a roadside bomb.

Daniel Clay, a Washington High School graduate, was one of 10 U.S. Marines killed by an improvised explosive device near Fallujah, his family said Friday.

Although Marine officials had not released the identities of all the victims as of Friday evening, Clay's family members, who were notified of his death Thursday evening, said Friday that he was among them.

They declined further comment.

Some who knew Clay said being a Marine was one of his longtime dreams. He was a member of the Junior ROTC program at Washington and enlisted in the U.S. armed forces shortly after his graduation in 1996, said Alex Golovko, Clay's high school cross-country running coach.

"I thought (Clay) was very sharp," Golovko said. "He even looked like a Marine in high school. He was very well-disciplined."

Everett Whiteside, who also coached Clay in track and cross country at Washington, describing him as an "outstanding young man" who "earned the respect of his teammates."

"He put country and service first above everything else, and I'm sure that's the type of soldier he was," Whiteside said. "He was a natural leader."

According to the Pentagon, the roadside bomb that killed the 10 Marines and wounded 11 others -- all of whom were on foot patrol -- was fashioned from several large artillery shells.

It was the deadliest attack against American troops since August and brought to at least 2,124 the number of service members killed since the beginning of the war in March 2003.

Marine Cpl. Jonathan "J.R." Spears, 21, of Molino was the 2,000th U.S. armed forces death in Iraq and the first from the Pensacola Bay Area. He was fatally shot on Oct. 23.

In addition to Washington High, Clay also attended Scenic Heights Elementary and Ferry Pass Middle schools, a childhood friend said. The son of Sara Jo and Bud Clay, Daniel Clay has three surviving sisters, the youngest of whom, Katy Clay, graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 2003. A fourth sister died last year.

Clay and his wife resided in California. It was not immediately known whether the couple have any children.

"All he ever talked about was joining the military," said Chris Smith, 27, who became friends with Clay when they were in second grade. "He was always going the extra mile to get things done for his friends. He was absolutely a great guy."

Text Size: A A A
Print Email Bookmark Forum Subscribe

zoom
Then Sgt. Daniel Clay, second from right, was present for a document signing with Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld in July 2003. Also pictured are: from left, Rumsfeld, U.S. Congressman Henry Brown, R-S.C., Joint Chiefs of Staff vice chairman Gen. Peter Pace, Sgt. Major John Estrada, Clay and Lisa Clay.
Photo courtesy of Department of Defense

Related news from the Web

- Latest headlines by topic:
- Henry Brown
 - Iraq
 - World News
 - US House of Representatives
 - Middle East
- Powered by Topix.net

ADVERTISEMENT

INSWEB Are you paying too much for auto insurance?

ZIP code where you park at night:

Do you currently have auto insurance? Yes No

Have you had a U.S driver's license for more than 3 years? Yes No

Has any driver in your household had 2 or more accidents or moving violations in the last 3 years? Yes No

GET QUOTES NOW